Dallas Cowboys quarterback Dak Prescott and members of his wide receiver corps took a break from offseason training at ESPN Wide World of Sports Complex to pal around with Woody and Jessie, stars of the Pixar Animation Studios Toy Story films, in Toy Story Land at Disney's Hollywood Studios.

Prior to the start of Dallas Cowboys training camp, Prescott and receivers Michael Gallup, Deonte Thompson, Lance Lenoir Jr. and Allen Hurns prepared for the upcoming season by working out at Disney. In their free time, they enjoyed the Walt Disney World Resort theme parks, including Toy Story Land, the newest expansion at Disney's Hollywood Studios. Like Prescott and his teammates, guests can meet Woody and other Toy Story favorites, such as Jessie and Buzz Lightyear, throughout the day in the newly opened Toy Story Land. The 11-acre land opened June 30, 2018, and transports Walt Disney World Resort guests into the adventurous outdoors of Andy's backyard, where they feel like they are the size of a toy.
